ANTIBACTERIAL TREATMENT AVAILABLE

ETRA has adopted the most advanced technologies to protect the health of our customers and the homes they live in. Combining special products with effective procedures, we have been able to deliver kitchen systems that effectively reduce bacteria production.

Our Antibacterial cabinets and doors are available in particle board laminate and MDF. Our LPL, HPL and laquered finishes are designed with a combination of special materials weaved with silver ion. Together, they have the ability to kill 99% of bacteria. The performance, colour and quality of our products are never jeopardized during the production of our Antibacterial treatment.

Other components of our kitchen systems such as hinges and drawers are also RoHS compliant. This means that they are fabricated without the use of hazardous materials. The metal used for such parts are bacteriostatic agents which prevent growth and reproduction of bacteria.

For more information on our Antibacterial treatment, please contact us.
